Glasgow's Botanic Gardens were founded in 1817, by Thomas Hopkirk of Dalbeth, who gave his own plant collection to form the nucleus of the new garden.

It was run by the Royal Botanical Institution of Glasgow and an agreement was reached with Glasgow University to provide facilities for teaching, including supply of plants for botany and medical classes.

Originally used for concerts and other events, in 1891 the gardens were incorporated into the parks and gardens of the City of Glasgow.

The Botanic Gardens receive approximately 400,000 visitors annually.
